

Safeguarding Policy and Operational Procedures

Last Update: Nov 2023

Approved by the Board of Trustees: Nov 2023

Due for Review: Nov 2024

Policy Statement

Zoo Co believes strongly in the power of engagement and that everyone should be able to participate. We believe that theatre is better when everybody is invited. A lot of our work is accessible for deaf audiences, using Creative Captioning and integrated British Sign Language. Our casts and creative teams include artists who are deaf, disabled, neuro-diverse, hearing, non-disabled or neurotypical.

In this work, we are committed to the safety of children and young people, Adults at Risk, and our employees.

We have formulated this policy and procedure, and the infrastructure that accompanies them, to instigate and maintain Safeguarding best practice.

Staff and freelancers (including facilitators and creative teams) should be fully aware of the organisation's Safeguarding guidelines, and are provided with a copy of the Safeguarding Policy. The Charity Commission advises that a Safeguarding Policy should be publicly available, and NCVO advises that it should be available on an organisation's website; ours is available to download here: <https://www.wearezooco.co.uk/about-us>

Safeguarding means:

- Protecting people from maltreatment and taking action to enable everyone to have the best outcomes.
- Preventing impairment of people's mental and physical health and/or development.
- Ensuring people are in circumstances consistent with the provision of safe and effective care.

Safeguarding and child protection are different. Safeguarding is what we do to prevent harm; Child Protection is how we respond when we believe a child is at risk of harm, or has been harmed.

Child Protection is part of Safeguarding, and our processes are described in this Policy.

It is the responsibility of the Trustees and the Executive Director (also Deputy DSL) to ensure that adequate policies and procedures are in place. The process of implementing this policy is the responsibility of the Executive Director and the General Manager.

We will seek to keep children, young people and Adults at Risk safe by:

- Adopting Safeguarding practices through procedures and a code of conduct for staff and freelancers.

- Providing effective management for staff and freelancers through supervision, support and training.
- Recruiting staff and freelancers safely, ensuring all necessary checks are made.
- Responding quickly and appropriately to all suspicions or allegations of abuse.
- Sharing concerns with families, schools and external agencies as appropriate.
- Not tolerating bullying. Incidents of bullying will be investigated and treated seriously. Action will be taken to stop the bullying.

This Policy should be amended as required by changes in legislation and best practice; these amendments should be made by the Deputy Safeguarding Lead, in consultation with the Designated Safeguarding Lead.

This Policy should be reviewed and adopted by the Board of Trustees every year.

Definitions: Though we may use 'young people' in this document and in others to refer to people under the age of 18, there is no ambiguity about our responsibilities and outlook: that under the law, a child is anyone under the age of 18, and all our child protection and safeguarding measures are built with this in mind.

Zoo Co Designated Safeguarding Lead

florence@wearezooco.co.uk

Phone number on request - available to staff and freelancers on request (as this document is available on our website).

Training:

NSPCC Introduction to Child Protection: all staff. Because we know children can choose to disclose to adults they know slightly, as well as adults they know well, all of our employed staff, and freelancers working with us regularly, receive this baseline training if they do not have a qualification in place which supersedes it.

We may in future take advantage of free training in Safeguarding offered by Croydon Council:

<https://www.croydon.gov.uk/children-young-people-and-families/professionals-working-children-and-young-people/partnership/training>

Designated Safeguarding Lead Level 3: Both our Artistic Director and Executive Director have undertaken this training, most recently in September 2023. The Exec is also certified by ArtsWork in Embedding Safeguarding (2022).

Flo is the Designated Safeguarding Lead for Zoo Co, Amy is the Deputy DSL, and Amy and Flo meet quarterly and as required to confer over Safeguarding matters.

Verbal brief and reminders: Given to core and contracted staff every 6 months (1 hour session). Given to facilitators at the start of each engagement, or each academic year,, whichever is more frequent (1 hour session).

Termly Safeguarding check-ins should be built into freelance facilitators' contracted paid time with Zoo Co (30 minute session).

Performance Licences

In YoCo performances, participants are unpaid for their work, and do not miss any school time to prepare or perform. Performance runs are less than 4 days. In this case, Croydon Council does not require any performance licences for the children taking part in these productions:

<https://www.croydon.gov.uk/business-licences-and-tenders/licences-permits-and-registrations/apply/children-young-people-employment-permits/apply-standard-child-performance-and-activities>

If the circumstances of YoCo performances change, Zoo Co will obtain the relevant licences, and take advice from the Local Authority Education Welfare Teams.

Safe communication with children

Email

When you need to email YoCo members, copy in another adult at Zoo Co for transparency.

When you email the whole YoCo group, or more than one member of the group, use BCC or mail merge, so their emails aren't available to one another.

Keep the content of your email clear, so there isn't room for misunderstanding; though these sign-offs can be common in the arts, don't use 'love' or 'xx'.

If you're concerned about the content of an email you've received from a young person or an Adult at Risk, please speak to the Designated Safeguarding Lead.

If you receive indecent images, stop viewing them as soon as you realise what is happening. Make the Designated Safeguarding Lead aware of what's happened immediately, but do not share the images themselves any further (even with the Designated Safeguarding Lead). Do not delete the content.

Whatsapp and the YoCo phone

Zoo Co maintains a dedicated YoCo phone to communicate with YoCo members about scheduling and other reminders. No YoCo personal numbers should be saved on personal staff mobiles.

All parents will be informed of the platforms used to communicate with young people, and will be asked for their written consent that their child be part of the YoCo Whatsapp group. For clarity, in a Whatsapp group, children can see each other's names and phone numbers, share information with each other including images, and 'Reply Privately' to one another in a way that cannot be seen by Zoo Co staff managing the YoCo Whatsapp group.

If a Zoo Co staff member needs to call a child (eg. to check if they are on the way to a session), they should use the company phone, and make the call in an area with another adult present.

Social Media

For your own safety, no staff member or freelancer should approach, befriend or follow any YoCo member online on any social network. Do not exchange private messages with young people online.

If you have a public account with no privacy restrictions, you can allow an under 18 to follow that account (ie. you do not have to block them), but you should not follow them back.

You may block a young person if you are not comfortable with them following you on a public account, for instance if you do not use that account in a professional capacity. You should block a young person if your feed contains material unsuitable for a young person.

Do not take or share photos of young people unless you have written consent from the parent / carer, and from the young person themselves.

If you are certain you have written permission for everyone pictured, you may post photos to the Zoo Co social media accounts. You may share these posts on your personal accounts, but you may not post these photos independently on your personal accounts.

Current organisational accounts are:

Moderated by Alannah Cooke, Project Administrator

Facebook	@wearezooco

Moderated by Amy Smith, Executive Director:

Linkedin <https://www.linkedin.com/company/zoo-co-theatre-company/>

A young person, or their parents if the child is still under 18, may withdraw their consent from any and all images at any time. If consent is withdrawn, all images of them must be deleted from social media and from Zoo Co's folders.

Children shouldn't be tagged in posts by Zoo Co (they may choose to repost as a story and tag themselves and other children - this is OK and outside of our control).

If you mention (@) or check in at a location, the photo must not be posted 'live', but at some later point when the young people are elsewhere, ideally the following day or later. In the case of social media 'takeovers', where immediacy and liveness generate interest in a project, facilitators should think carefully about the make-up of the group, and each child's personal circumstances. Facilitators should speak to the group and individuals as required to outline to the group possible risks of sharing locations live. This is the most practical approach when the group meets and performs at a set, advertised location.

No full names of children should be spoken or written in captions; first names only. Only use images of young people in suitable clothing to reduce the risk of inappropriate use.

Sharing work online checklist:

- From a Zoo Co account?
- Parental consent?
- Young person's consent?
- No tagging?
- No surnames?
- Posted after the event?
- Suitable clothing?

Respect any rules on the use of social media and mobile phones at any off-site settings eg. schools, colleges, day care centres.

If an external photographer / filmmaker is engaged, there should be no unsupervised contact with children.

Do not show / signpost any unsuitable material to young people. This may be on your personal device, or in hard copy such as books, magazines, clothing or accessories.

Do not pass your personal device to a young person for them to research something (you probably don't have safe search functions set up on a personal device). Young people often run out of data; offer to create a hotspot, or search an image yourself and airdrop it to the child's device.

If you receive indecent images, stop viewing them as soon as you realise what is happening. Make the Designated Safeguarding Lead aware of what's happened immediately, but do not share the images themselves any further (even with the Designated Safeguarding Lead). Do not delete the content.

Storage of photographs and film

Images of children should be stored only on Zoo Co's G Drive, or on the company phone. No images of children working with Zoo Co should ever be stored on personal devices. If an image is taken on a personal device it should be posted on social media as above, moved for storage on the Drive if necessary, and then deleted, and the Deleted Items cleared.

Signage at events

If public events are being filmed / photographed, there should be signage to indicate this, eg. 'Photographs and film will be taken at this event. Please speak to a member of Zoo Co staff if you need more information'.

At YoCo performances, signage saying that 'filming and photography is not permitted during the performance' should be clearly visible. Proud relatives and friends can share social media content from the Zoo Co accounts, or take photos after the performance when everyone's consent can be gained verbally by them.

Trips (for example to see shows)

YoCo are sometimes offered the chance to attend a theatre performance eg. in Central London. Things to think about:

- Has parental permission been obtained?
- Is enough support offered with travel (wayfinding, travelling at night, cost)?
- Environmental risks - the weather, strike action, pandemic conditions, terror threat levels.
- Do you know enough about everyone's medical / access requirements?
- Do you know how to get in touch with Next of Kin in case of emergency, or someone not arriving as expected?

Communicating with families, schools and colleges

YoCo members are between 14 - 18 years old. Generally they travel to us independently, and levels of contact with parents and carers vary; in general we have only slight contact.

Emergency contact details should be used if a child does not arrive when expected, and isn't responding to messages / calls to their own phone.

Zoo Co understands that schools and colleges play a key role in safeguarding children, and that those settings have a much fuller picture of the child's history and current circumstances. The school or college should be involved in most cases where additional support is needed. Ideally, consent from the young person would be obtained before contacting them, but lack of consent should not stop you from raising issues with the school or college.

Zoo Co understands that families should be involved in most cases where additional support is needed. Ideally, consent from the young person would be obtained before contacting the family.

Do not involve the parents where the parents are implicated, eg. in the case of domestic abuse.

Peer abuse

Everyone working for Zoo Co should recognise that young people are capable of abusing their peers. Peer abuse is behaviour by an individual or group intended to harm others (physically, emotionally or sexually). This may take the form of the following safeguarding issues:

- Bullying (including online bullying) - emotional abuse, including exclusion
- Physical abuse like hitting, kicking, hair pulling or biting
- Sexual violence and sexual harassment

- Sexting (when this happens by or amongst young people it also known as ‘youth produced sexual imagery)
- Initiation rituals that include violence or harm (‘hazing’)

To prevent Peer abuse taking place, you should:

- Ensure all sessions are supervised by the appropriate number of staff
- Act as a role model - demonstrate our rules in your own behaviour.
- Remind the group at key moments of Zoo Co’s core principle of inclusivity.

Principles for dealing with:

Fights or physical violence

- Don’t put yourself at risk
- Separate the people involved
- Create space for them to calm down
- Manage the group appropriately
- Report on what has happened

Unkindness

- Confront moments of unkindness firmly and clearly
- Report on what has happened

Arguments and friendship breakdowns

- These are a part of life and community, and to be expected
- Focus on the whole group continuing to participate together

Extensive touch within exercises

- Establish a traffic light system to agree touch within the group
- Discuss boundaries and consent around touch
- Re-direct the exercise

Sexual activity amongst young people

- The legal age for someone to consent to have sex (regardless of their sexuality, or the gender of either person) is 16 in the UK.
- If you learn that someone under the age of 16 is sexually active or has had sex, this is something you refer to the DSL. Someone under 16 may be freely consenting to having sex however, in the eyes of the law, they are too young to make this decision.
- If you learn that someone 16 - 18 (legally a child, but over the age of consent) is sexually active with someone 18 or older (an adult), this is something you refer to the DSL.
- It is illegal for an adult in a position of trust or responsibility to have sex with a 16 or 17 year old; if you learn of this situation, you should report it immediately.

Private fostering

Private fostering is judged as taking place where a child or young person is looked after:

- Full-time

- By someone who is not a close relative (list here: <https://safeguarding.network/content/safeguarding-resources/children-care-others/private-fostering/>)
- For longer than 28 consecutive days
- When they are under 16, or under 18 if they

This may be because they:

- Aren't getting on with their parents, or their parents are going through a separation
- Are being looked after by paid or unpaid contacts while their parents are working at a distance / abroad.
- Are staying with a friend or relative due to family illness or hospitalisation

It's not always a negative thing - it can be a really positive thing that a child is being supported by their wider community. But it is a situation that needs to be monitored. If you think that a child is being privately fostered, you should tell the DSL, who is then obliged to make a referral to Croydon MASH.

Acknowledging positions of power

Zoo Co acknowledges that professional and appropriate relationships formed at groups like YoCo can be important for a young person as they pursue a career in the arts. We are potentially part of their professional network for years to come.

Zoo Co staff and freelancers also need to acknowledge that they have held a position of power in a young person's life, and that has a bearing on any future relationship after the child turns 18, and after they leave YoCo.

Contact should be limited to professional email accounts wherever possible.

After somebody leaves YoCo, a Zoo Co staff member may take up email contact only in a professional capacity, from their professional email account. Phone numbers should only be exchanged if the ex-YoCo member is over 18, and is working for Zoo Co in a paid, professional capacity.

If the YoCo graduate is over 18, a Zoo Co staff member or facilitator may follow someone back on social media. Whilst the staff member or facilitator still works for Zoo Co, they may not enter into a personal relationship with any ex-YoCo member.

Zoo Co strongly discourages personal relationships with ex-YoCo members, even if the staff member or facilitator no longer works for Zoo Co.

Work placements

Young people and Adults at Risk visiting Zoo Co (either to its base, in rehearsal or at work 'on the road') as work placements or for work shadowing opportunities are entitled to the same commitment to their safety and protection as they would be if they were in their schools.

Lone contact between Zoo Co staff members and work placements should be avoided; work placements should always be supported in a group environment, within sight of other people.

Zoo Co will seek the guidance of the relevant schools or placement providers should it foresee potentially difficult situations with work placements.

DBS Checks

Some roles at Zoo Co require DBS checks to be in place. These include roles with regular and prolonged work with young people - for instance our Young Company (YoCo), some of whom have worked with us for several years (weekly term-time sessions). These include roles with extensive financial administration, for instance people who hold logins to our bank account.

In general, the type of DBS check we require is:

Enhanced (rather than Standard).

Child and Adult Workforce - because we work with both children and Adults at Risk

Regulated activity children - yes - we are meeting regularly with children, and building relationships with them over time. We do not tend to require a check to cover Regulated Activity with Adults, as this relates to personal care like toileting and dressing, so we do not ask for an Adults Barring list check.

Job adverts for roles at Zoo Co will include whether a DBS check is required to be in place for someone to take on that role.

The presence of an offence on a DBS check will need to be interpreted by the General Manager and Executive Director. Whilst there are some offences that make it impossible to work with or in proximity to children, there are others which are of no relevance and others which may not be of relevance. Zoo Co also maintains, within its Equal Opportunities Policy, an understanding of the Rehabilitation of Offenders regulations. In areas of interpretation, the nature of the job will be considered as well as the latest legislative situation.

If someone at Zoo Co is involved in a Safeguarding incident that results in their dismissal, the Designated Safeguarding Lead must tell the DBS (Disclosure and Barring Service). The DSL should also inform the DBS if the person would have been dismissed, but left in some other way first (eg. resigned or retired).

A DBS has no official expiry date. It is Zoo Co policy that a DBS should be renewed every three years. Someone joining us may present us with a DBS generated by another organisation that is less than three years old; this is acceptable to us, but the check should be renewed on or before the three year anniversary of when it was generated.

A person may also be a member of the Update Service:

<https://www.gov.uk/dbs-update-service> in which case Zoo Co will check the status of a certificate this way. Zoo Co strongly advises everyone undergoing a DBS process to join this service (which can be done within 30 days of a new check being generated).

Job Descriptions and advertising

Zoo Co recognises that safe recruitment and selection practice is vital in safeguarding and protecting children. Zoo Co will ensure that the following appears in all Job Descriptions:

Zoo Co is committed to safeguarding all children and Adults at Risk with whom we work; we expect all staff and freelancers to share this commitment.

At interview, Zoo Co staff will ask about any gaps in employment history of one year or more, explaining that this is a requirement of our Safeguarding Policy, and that most life circumstances that create gaps in employment are not material to us when selecting candidates.

Two references are requested and contacted before offering any employee role.

Obligations to our employees

In terms of working practice, all employees are entitled to feel that they are not being put into situations where they could be at danger of malicious or mistaken claims; Appendix 1 and Appendix 2 provide guidelines that support a safe way of working.

Employees owe a duty of care to each other, an obligation to support each other in working with children, young people and Adults at Risk. They must also ensure that the management of the company is aware of potential problems and that inappropriate behaviour is reported through the Safeguarding reporting structure.

Child Protection Procedure

Child Protection is the activity that is undertaken to protect specific children who are suffering, or are likely to suffer, significant harm, or about whom there are those concerns. It is part of safeguarding and promoting welfare.

Anyone at Zoo Co may report:

- Something you observe directly - the behaviour or physical appearance of a single child, between children, or between an adult and a child
- A second-hand report - from a child, a parent, a colleague, or someone else. This may come in the form of a disclosure - see Appendix 1

You should make a note of your report as soon afterwards as is practical, and pass this to the Designated Safeguarding Lead. This must be done within 24 hours, which may mean contacting the DSL out-of-hours, or interrupting a weekend or a holiday; Safeguarding concerns are a legitimate reason for out-of-hours contact.

If the DSL is uncontactable, you should contact the Deputy DSL instead, again out-of-hours if necessary.

Appendix 5 at the end of this document offers a template reporting form, which reminds you of all the necessary details for your report.

What we will do next is summarised in this flowchart:

https://drive.google.com/file/d/1tOCC3SHRMIvjDSebHLTbie_7jubB2DQW/view?usp=drive_link

For the Safeguarding Team once they have a report

The DSL and Deputy DSL should meet to discuss the report as soon as is practical, and not more than 24 hours after the report is submitted to them. Other staff may be invited to the meeting as relevant, balancing the need for expertise / experience with the need for confidentiality.

At this meeting, or immediately afterwards, they should log the report on the Safeguarding Log.

During this meeting, the group will review the report they have been given, and decide on next actions using the following documents as guides:

Croydon Threshold Guidance doc:

https://drive.google.com/file/d/1tOCC3SHRMIvjDSebHLTbie_7jubB2DQW/view?usp=drive_link

Or online here:

We may also wish to refer to this Levels of Need examples sheet from our DSL training (2023):

https://drive.google.com/file/d/158u11hz4W5thMmwmzJi3ww0zzIXwpB-k/view?usp=drive_link

If a decision is made to report on to the LADO or to Croydon MASH, this should be done as soon as is practical, and within 24 hours of the meeting taking place.

If other decisions are made, for instance to contact the child's family or the school or college for a further discussion, these should be actioned as soon as is practical, and within 3 days of the meeting taking place.

Appendix 1

Professional etiquette with young people

The following notes are not intended to make you uncomfortable or self-conscious about your behaviour with children. They are guidelines for appropriate contact with young people.

- Never talk to a child alone, eg. in the office, a corridor or a separate room from the group. Use a corner of the room in sight of the rest of the group and other facilitators if you need some privacy to speak to an individual.
- If you follow a child outside, or offer to go outside with a child who is upset, use busy public areas like the benches at the front of Stanley Arts, facing the main road. Your co-facilitator should come and check on you both if you are not back after 5 minutes.
- If you talk to a child alone in our dedicated rest areas, move parts of the structure to open up the rest area and make you visible to the rest of the group.
- Please keep any physical contact with children to a minimum.
- Should you need to make physical contact with a child to model an exercise, Zoo Co practises a 'safe touch' approach. First of all, ask yourself whether it is necessary to touch the child; is demonstration or verbal instruction adequate?
- Next, seek the child's permission and if they say 'no' it must be respected.
- Facilitators may use a Traffic Light System to establish consent at the beginning of a movement session; a gesture like a hand across the chest indicates 'do not touch me'. This has the advantage of a collective approach - young people know the boundaries amongst their peers.
- If the child agrees then tell the child or young person where you are going to touch them (restrict touch to arms, shoulders and mid-back) and how you will touch – then explain why you are going to touch. The process feels quite formal and stilted, but in reality, can be quite simple: eg. 'is it OK if I touch your arm? I'm just going to move your arm slightly so that your mimed action is a bit stronger.'
- Children sometimes show their gratitude in a physical way, eg. a hug. Redirect to something more appropriate if possible eg. a high five. If this isn't possible, keep the hug brief and restrict your touch to arms, shoulders and mid-back. Don't offer hugs yourself.
- Whilst working with young people in a session, use a single-cubicle toilet like an accessible toilet.

Handling Disclosures

A disclosure is when a child tells you that they have been harmed, or are at risk of harm. The law recognises four forms of child abuse:

- Physical abuse
- Emotional abuse
- Sexual abuse
- Neglect

Children can disclose to people they do not know well, as well as to people close to them; it's important that everyone working for Zoo Co recognises when a disclosure is taking place so they can respond appropriately.

Should a child offer you information e.g. 'I'm being bullied', or should a child seem distressed about the emotions of the themes in a workshop session:

- Make sure that there are other people around and that it is not just you and the young person in a confined space, and listen carefully to what they say.
- Let them know, gently, and early in the conversation that you cannot keep what they're telling you confidential.
- Try to stay calm and not look shocked or disturbed. Listen without interrupting. You can nod or make verbal affirmation that you have heard what the young person is saying.
- Only ask questions if you didn't understand what was said, for example if it was said quietly or you require a word to be repeated.
- Do not promise to keep a secret. You can reassure the young person that they have done the right thing in telling someone. You can thank them for telling you, and you can tell them they are brave. You can tell them it's not their fault.
- Make a note of exactly what they have told you as soon as possible afterwards. Use their own words as much as possible. Sign it immediately and pass it to the Artistic Director (as DSL), the Executive Director (as Deputy DSL) or the General Manager. By hand, email or Whatsapp; whichever method is the quickest and most direct. Responsibility then passes to them to respond to the issue, reporting on as needed.
- A child may, as part of a creative exercise like free writing or poetry, speak about harmful acts like self-harm or abuse. If you are concerned about the content of a piece of creative expression, you should speak to the child about it soon afterwards. This later conversation may lead to a disclosure, in which case you should follow the guidelines above.

Chronologies

Following advice from C3, from Autumn 2023 we will begin keeping chronologies for YoCo members. This document will be separate from the Safeguarding Incidents Log, and will record moments of concern that fall below the Safeguarding reporting threshold.

Chronologies will be maintained all through a child's time at YoCo. This should help Zoo Co spot patterns, for example deteriorations in behaviour or mental health over time. Examples of things that may be included in a chronology:

- If the child tells us they have suffered a bereavement (family, friends, pets)

- If allegiances or friendships in the group (or in their wider circles) change or break down
- If the child describes harmful acts or distressing situations in their creative expression
- Explained injuries and significant illnesses

Appendix 2

Professional Etiquette with Adults at Risk

An adult at risk is any person who is aged 18 years or over and at risk of abuse or neglect because of their needs for care and or support.

Adults can be deemed to be at risk at certain times - eg. a diabetic having a hypo is an adult at risk, but a diabetic is not necessarily an adult at risk the rest of the time.

Whilst personal characteristics may make an individual more vulnerable i.e. a disability or communication difficulties, it is the situation around a person which may increase risk or place them at potential risk of harm. You should be open to the possibility that any adult may be at risk and that this can be temporary or ongoing depending on the support and protective factors around them.

An adult at risk can, always or sometimes, be either someone working for the company as an employee or a freelancer, or someone joining us as a participant. An adult at risk can be a friend.

Zoo Co staff and freelancers need to acknowledge that they may hold a position of power in another adult's life, and how vulnerable that person is at any point in time:

- Are you a facilitator, and they a participant?
- Are you their line manager, or somewhere in their line management structure?
- Does your role hold power over whether we offer further employment to that person (eg. in the case of a producer and an actor)

If you are a facilitator, and they are an unpaid participant on a project, or an unpaid work placement, we expect similar boundaries in place to Appendix 1.

If the person is a paid colleague, you may need to consider:

- Whether a personal relationship is appropriate; whether you would like to accept invitations to social media like Instagram and Whatsapp. You can always choose to connect on these platforms at a later stage, for instance when a contract with Zoo Co is completed.

You should report any concerning behaviour. This could be directly to the DSL, but you may prefer to report things you've noticed to your line manager, or to the General Manager. These people will pass reports on to the DSL for a safeguarding discussion as needed.

Examples may include:

- Direct signs of abuse: the same four categories as with children - physical, emotional, sexual, and neglect (eg. withholding necessities like medication, food and heating). In addition, adults can suffer financial abuse. You may see signs of domestic violence, coercive control, or modern slavery.
- Reports of abuse: a report (a disclosure) from the person that indicates something like the above is taking place.

- Self-neglect. Someone not taking care of themselves in the usual ways eg. around personal hygiene. Hoarding behaviour is a sign of self-neglect. Avoiding or ignoring medical appointments is a sign of self-neglect.

There are also some behaviours an adult at risk might enact that impact you negatively, and should be reported. Examples may include:

- Excessive messaging on social media.
- 'Over-sharing' - sharing personal information with you that you feel crosses the boundaries of the relationship you hold with that person.
- Emotional blackmail - the feeling that you are being manipulated into things you don't want to / wouldn't usually do to protect the feelings of that person.

You may also like to confer with Zoo Co's Mental Health First Aider, Fleur Rooth.

Key principles when working with adults at risk are:

Empowerment

People being supported and encouraged to make their own decisions and informed consent.

Prevention

It is better to take action before harm occurs.

Proportionality

The least intrusive response appropriate to the risk presented.

Protection

Support and representation for those in greatest need.

Partnership

Local solutions through services working with their communities. Communities have a part to play in preventing, detecting and reporting neglect and abuse.

Accountability

Accountability and transparency in delivering safeguarding.

Appendix 3

GDPR and remote working with children, young people and Adults at Risk

Children's personal data

Shared Drive, limited access

Zoo Co has a hybrid working policy, nationwide networks, and a high number of disabled staff and stakeholders. This means remote working and Zoom calls are an intrinsic part of work at Zoo Co.

Zoo Co uses G Suite, so there should only be very rare circumstances when contact details or images of anyone are downloaded to a personal laptop or other personal device.

In the rare case that you do download contact details or images onto your personal device, you should make sure everything you need is saved in the right place on the G Drive (with restricted access if necessary), and clear your downloads folder (and/or wherever they were saved) at the end of your session of work.

Artists who need access to creative content like videos should be given links to online sites (for instance, YouTube videos set to Private) not downloadable files.
